We learned this waltz from Jon Singleton and Chris Roe in Seattle, the day after it was played at the funeral of John Denyes, a well-loved musician and dancer. This was his favorite tune and so it has special significance for all of us who knew him. This version, folk-processed into the key of G with simplified harmonies, is popular both in Seattle and in New England. You can hear a nice version of this on My Joy, available from Hanneke Cassell at POB 231080, Boston, MA 02123.
